Public facilities, including fire & rescue, police, school, library, and other public facilities are part of a network of services and functions provided by Fairfax County. These facilities are essential to support the community and enhance the overall quality of life. The county's present system of public facilities demonstrates a high commitment to service provision and the community's expectations. As part of current policy, a balance between future land uses and facility quantity and location is considered to maximize accessibility and provide timely responses while minimizing community impact.

Other significant non-public facilities in the Lorton area include Vulcan Industries quarry.
